

ENTREPRENEURS du Monde

Volunteer - Website Development

Since 1998 Entrepreneurs du Monde has supported families around the world in their journeys out of poverty. We do this using social microfinance to help them develop small businesses, by providing credit, savings and training as well as personalised assistance. We believe that microfinance can be more effective than just providing access to financial services; in our work it can power supply chains, build capacity for local micro-enterprises and increase the social and economic wellbeing of whole communities. We base our services on the needs of our clients, giving them support that is local, flexible, comprehensive, ongoing and which ultimately guides them towards self-sufficiency. Around the world we are currently active in 10 countries across Asia, Africa and the Caribbean.

As part of planned expansion we are now developing our UK presence, reaching out to new supporters; people who believe in social microfinance as a means to fight poverty and who take an active interest in the impact made by their donations.

Communications is a key issue for us, as with any NGO. Our website exists and you can visit us at www.edmuk.org. Taking the site to the next level is the challenge we would like to offer you. Our field work, fundraising and advocacy for social microfinance generate a large amount of dialogue, documentation and data for which our website acts as a window for supporters. Ensuring that the site informs, inspires, engages and even entertains will be your task. We're looking for creativity, rigour, imagination, flair and self-discipline in equal measure. A rare mix, but is it you?

Bring us your technical skills, your desire and enthusiasm and we will help you learn about microfinance and develop your own knowledge and expertise. Entrepreneurs du Monde is leading the way in applying microfinance that is focused on more than just financial inclusion; on providing families and communities with tools, guidance and support that help them significantly improve their quality of life. Join us and become part of that mission.
